Weighing In

Peter dutifully got each attendee to guess the weight of a watermelon - the prize being the melon.

And - it's a tie between Bill Thorndike and Jill Naumann but, ever the gentleman, Bill presented the melon to Jill.

BUT WAIT — there's a math error, says Carol Fischer!

Ah, it was funny and fun!

Summer Party 2018

A great time in a great setting at RoxyAnn Winery. We moved indoors as a concession to the smoke (which wasn't AWFUL but wasn't a typical summer night either. Great wine, great food (Julie McLaughlin said the brisket was the best she'd ever tasted!).

Peter did his customary outstanding job at emceeing and cajoling auction bids (we raised about $7,000 for the Scholarship Foundation.

And Carol drew Jason's name as the 50-50 drawing winner!

Too Many People to Caption!

Thanks for again hosting us, Jack!

SPOTLIGHT

Jack Dumas

Jack Dumas doesn't look 88. Not even near 88.

Jack grew up in Milwaukie, Oregon, where he said he played football and ran the low hurdles. We asked if he was any good. "No," he said, "I played but I wasn't anything special, no."

His biography all begins to make sense when we learned he graduated from the University of Oregon in 1952 and started to do the math in our heads. He entered the Air Force and spent about 3 years learning how to fly a F-86 Saber Jet. Jack called it "the Mig killer."

"The armistice in Korea happened two months before I got my wings," he said.

Long time residents of the Valley remember Dumas Domestic Laundry, which operated on Riverside Avenue near what is now the Inn at the Commons. Jack and his brother operated and then sold a linen supply business, emphasizing uniforms and restaurant linen. They sold it in 1981 and in 1982 Jack began a long career in insurance, starting at Stanard and Brown, which then merged into The Protectors.

Jack retired in 1998, and has been retired for some 20 years. He plays golf a couple of times a week. He said he liked to ski and did it often, but has given it up.

We tried to draw him out. Did you do anything interesting or surprising in high school? He said he didn't. Was there any misbehavior you can look back on and now laugh? He said he was a good kid, no trouble. We asked if he had anything for us, anything at all that Club members would find interesting to talk with him about.

He said he was just a quiet guy; then he smiled.

Lunch and Learn

Travel and Tourism
- a Game Changer
Tuesday,
September 11

Eli Matthews, Senior Vice President of Travel Medford, will be speaking about The Chamber of Medford/Jackson County and Travel Medford’s efforts to make the Rogue Valley a destination for outdoor recreation and culinary adventure.

With the growth of the wine and craft beer industry, the adventure of river rafting and hiking, as well as the world class USCCP Sports Park, there are many opportunities to tout this region’s beauty, bounty, and sense of community.

Eli recently celebrated his fifth anniversary with The Chamber of Medford/Jackson County and Travel Medford. As head of the Travel Medford department, he is tasked with promoting Medford and the Rogue Valley and coordinating all forms of media outreach having impact on the local tourism economy.

Join us to learn about Tourism and its economic importance in our beautiful Rogue Valley at this month’s Lunch and Learn. Reservations are due by Monday Sept. 10 and can be made online at September Lunch and Learn or by calling Lori at 541-772-4707.

Remember the Club’s Special Recruitment Incentive

Ten bottles of wine, courtesy of your board members, if you bring in a new Personal or Business Member!
